Many Blue Ribbons Are Given During 4-H Achievement Days

Pettis County 4-H Achievement Day awarded many blue ribbons to participating club members and gave away no white ribbons during the judging of events on Friday. The Achievement Day ran from Wednesday when exhibits were put up until Friday afternoon after the judging when displays were taken down and taken home.

There were district winners in all events with first and second alternates and in some cases third and fourth alternates. These district winners will represent Pettis County in the District 4-H meeting.

In Dress Revue under the heading Clothing I, Marilyn Smiley, Houstonia 4-H, was the winner with a blue ribbon but will not enter the district meeting because her class does not have a district representative; the first alternate was Virginia Hughes, South Abel 4-H; and second alternate, Glenda Hunter, Manila 4-H. In Dress Revue under 14 years, Mary Elizabeth Farris, Dresden 4-H, was district representative; first alternate, Beverly Higdon, Maplewood 4-H; and second alternate was Linda Ruffin, Bryson Valley 4-H. Over 14 years, Elaine Lowrey, Hughesville 4-H, is district representative; first alternate, Mary Alice Hutchison, Georgetown 4-H; and Carol McCune, Manila 4-H, was second alternate.

Girls grooming: 12 years and over, Elaine Lowrey, Hughesville, got top honors, but cannot go because she won previously in dress revue; first alternate, Judy Brown, South Abel 4-H, will go as district representative taking Elaine Lowrey's place; and second alternate, Shirley Nagel, Hughesville 4-H. In girls grooming under 12 there were three top place winners but they will not attend district contest. They are: Shirley Chaney, Bryson Valley 4-H; Barbara Raines, Longwood 4-H; and Mary Lee Blackburn, Houstonia 4-H.

Boys grooming: 12 years and over, Clifford Chappell, Quisenberry 4-H, is district representative; first alternate, Dean Gottschalk, Dresden 4-H; and second alternate, Larry Keele, Flat Creek 4-H. Under 12 years were three top winners but none will attend the district contest. They are: Wayne Linhardt, Quisenberry 4-H; Bill Wall, Longwood 4-H; and Billy Claycomb, Longwood 4-H.

Winners in the Home Economics demonstrations were Barbara Feaster, Bryson Valley 4-H; Linda Ruffin, Bryson Valley 4-H; and Wanda Williams, Hughesville 4-H. They will all go to the district contest. First alternates were Barbara Raines, Longwood 4-H and Elaine Remmison, Longwood 4-H. Judith Hopkins, Striped College is the second alternate.

Agriculture demonstrations: Leeland Finley, Striped College 4-H, is district representative along with Kim Dabner, Striped College 4-H; a team of William Hayworth, South Abel 4-H and Richard Middleton, South Abel 4-H also will go to the district contest. First alternate is William Finley, Striped College 4-H and second alternate is Danny Curtis, Stokely 4-H.

In the public speaking contest held for the first time at the 4-H Achievement Day all four entries received blue ribbons. Marcia Russler, Quisenberry 4-H, is district representative. Marcia spoke on "Bill of Rights, Bill of Duties." First alternate is Caroline Staley, Striped College 4-H. The other two in the event were Glenda Rhoads, Quisenberry 4-H and Errene Shipley, Striped College 4-H.

All that received honors of either district representative or one of the alternates got blue ribbons. There were 764 entries in the Achievement Day contest. Of these, 373 entries got blue ribbons, 282 received red ones, and only 109 of them got whites.

Steel Strike Leaves Gary, Indiana, Like Ghost Town

GARY, Ind. (AP) — What happens when Big Steel's gates are locked, its blast furnaces banked and more than half a city's working population is left without work—and without pay?

That's the situation in Gary, home of the world's largest steel mill, a city born on the Indiana dunes and grown to maturity on the fringe and the wealth of U.S. Steel's sprawling acreage there.

Looking up Broadway, the city's main artery, a month ago, you would have seen the familiar pall of smoke in the northern sky by day and a bright orange glow at night.

Today the sky is clear and people walk slower, because 31,000 of them are in the 19th day of a nationwide steel strike in a city where nearly three out of every five workingmen normally labor at "The Mill."

Yesterday was payday for the

Hosiery Plans Good Fall Selling

By SAM DAWSON

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP)—There's a "feel of a good fall in the air" today for the hosiery industry. Spokesmen say the makers of stockings and socks, ailing for some 15 months or more, should finish their convalescence this summer.

Higher prices may cinch the cure this fall—but at the moment that is only an expectation. A help is that stretch hose and seamless stockings have caught the public fancy. And the industry works hard at making the public more style-conscious with the idea of selling both men and women more hosiery to match clothing and other accessories.

Stocking makers hope too they are winning their fight against the bare-legged bugaboo. Overproduction, the hike of the federal minimum wage to $1 an hour, slow sales and widespread price cutting have led to a number of mill closings and have sparked a number of consolidations of mills.

"Our sales and competitive experience so far in 1956 haven't been a happy one," says W. F. Williamson, president of the National Assn. of Hosiery Manufacturers. But he hopes that the period of adjustment is now about over.

"It feels like a turn now," says Reuben C. Ball, vice president of the trade group. "At least there are fewer sour comments on the situation by mill owners. Fall and winter production and sales should be better."

Ball traces the industry's present miseries back to the nylon shortage in World War II and the booming sale of nylon stockings—at fat profits—in the early post-war years. That brought a rush of new capital into the industry, then obviously a money-maker. Some 350 new mills were started in the first three postwar years.

First indigestion pangs were felt in 1949, but the Korean War the following year started a new rush to buy nylons. The number of hosiery plants reached a peak of 1,376 in 1952. Last year the glut of production hit the market hard. Price cutting, production cutbacks and mill closings followed.

Employment rolls, which reached a peak of 136,539 in 1950, are now around 113,000—slightly lower than a year ago—and also below the number employed right after the war. But hosiery makers point out that the new machinery installed since the war enables fewer workers to turn out more hosiery today.

STILL KING OF THE MOUNTAIN!

Chevy beats own Pikes Peak record... and tops all rivals including cars in every price range!

Chevrolet takes first, second and four of the top six places! Beats its own stock car record by a full minute and 16 seconds!

It happened on July 4. Running against the hottest competition in the land, Chevrolet won the Pikes Peak climb—a towering challenge open to all makes of cars.

This is far more than a blazing demonstration of power. It is unquestionable proof of Chevrolet's supreme roadability—the accuracy of Ball-Race steering, the solidity of outrigger rear springs, the traction "bite" that stems from balanced weight distribution.

There is no greater test of a car's road safety qualities than the Pikes Peak climb. See for yourself, in the car that's won the "crown" twice in a row!

Warrensburg Man Fatally Hurt in Fall

Clay W. Courtney, 50, of Warrensburg, Mo., died Saturday at 10 a.m. at the Bothwell Hospital of injuries suffered in fall from a scaffold in the Wesleyan Methodist Church, Broadway and Carr. The accident occurred Friday afternoon. Mr. Courtney was an electrical worker for the Queen City Electric Co.

The injured man fell 30 feet from the scaffold to the concrete floor apparently striking on his face. It was not known definitely what did occur, whether he fainted, blacked out, or slipped on the scaffold, as the structure was not broken and did not fall.

Witnesses Accident

It was reported D. C. Davis, 42, South Quincy, who was working on another scaffold across the large room, heard a noise and, looking over toward the other scaffold, saw Courtney as he rolled from the platform and fell to the floor.

Davis crawled down from his scaffold and rushed to Courtney's side and summoned assistance. Courtney was rushed to the Bothwell Hospital in the McLaughlin ambulance, where he was treated by Dr. D. R. Edwards. X-ray pictures were taken of his head injuries.

Condition Was Extremely Critical

Dr. Edwards described him as being in an extremely critical condition. The man had suffered at least 13 fractures of his skull and several slight lacerations.

The two men, employed by the Queen City Electric Co., were working on electrical work of the church, the firm having the contract for that type work on the new church building.

Courtney resided in Warrensburg with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Courtney.

Former Kansas City Woman's Suicide Try Broken Up by Police

NEW YORK, July 21 (AP)—Jane Trice, homesick and depressed over her lack of progress as an actress, was pulled from the Hudson River by police today.

The 20-year-old drama student and model came here from New Orleans where she had been acting in a few plays. She had been studying drama in Greenwich Village for seven months.

A passing policeman saw her jump into the river, stopped his patrol car and dived after her. After a struggle, he pulled her to the shore, aided by another policeman.

On her way to Bellevue Hospital she tried to jump from an ambulance, police said.

A friend later told police that Miss Trice had been upset and home-sick for her family in Kansas City, which she hadn't seen for two years.

An airliner took off on an average of more than once every 11 seconds for a flight within the United States during 1955.

Sedalia CAP Discusses Fair Exhibit Plans

A small group of senior CAP members and cadets attended the request meeting of the Sedalia Squadron Thursday night at the National Guard Armory. After two films were shown, one concerning aerodynamics and the other, parachuting, the senior members discussed the possibility of having a different senior member in charge of the State Fair exhibit and stand each day. The squadron will have an exhibit similar to the one last year.

The three CAP cadets from Sedalia attending the Missouri Wing encampment at Scott Air Force Base, were flown to Whitteman AFB from Scott Friday afternoon. The cadets were A-2c Bob Cornelius, 1st Lt. Dan Haney and 2nd Lt. Bill Lemke. Cadet Lt. Haney was flight leader in charge of 18 boys instead of the regular ten boys. The three cadets received certificates of accomplishment for completing 49 hours of instruction while at the encampment.

The squadron will meet at the airport next Thursday night since the Armory will be in use by the National Guard.

A Matter Of Discipline . . .

To challenge an employee on the basis of incompetency and neglect of duties is never a pleasant task. But occasion arises when this has to be done in big business, small business or school business.

A situation arose in Sedalia's Hubbard High School which from the viewpoint of the superintendent of schools challenged his authority. The matter reached an impasse so it was laid before the Board of Education. The latter had either to support the Superintendent of all the schools or the Principal of Hubbard High School. The case was reviewed by the Board several times on the basis of information at hand. The Hubbard principal, under contract for another year, was asked to resign. He refused, according to the board. The next alternative was a board resolution to stop the principal's pay August 1.

No one likes to air the soiled linen of an administrative controversy like this. But anyone familiar with the techniques of executive control must admit that someone has to be boss. A school principal is responsible to the superintendent; the superintendent is responsible to the Board of Education; and the Board of Education to the people.

On the other hand if a principal or teacher or janitor believes he is being persecuted by a Superintendent on the basis of unfair and untrue accusations, then that person has right of appeal to the Board.

And right here it might be emphasized that disciplinary procedures should be followed whether the offending party be white, black, brown or an Eskimo; Presbyterian, Methodist, Baptist or Episcopalian; an Elk or a Moose.

Color, church affiliation, or lodge membership should not be the basis for dispensing the dicta of executive controls.

We don't believe the Sedalia Board of Education is motivated by any such differentiation regardless of the maudlin sentimentalists who would like to make something out of this event as one of racial discrimination.

Judging from the development of this particular case, it appears that the Principal of Hubbard High School is going to be reconciled with discontinuance of his pay August 1 or thereafter charge the Sedalia Board of Education with a breach of contract and have it out in the courts, if necessary, where all the evidence can be heard publicly, either in favor of or against one or the other.

The Superintendent and Board members are firm in conviction that a subordinate employee has not properly accounted for his stewardship. They so stand on that premise. It is now up to the Principal. He has rights if he cares to exercise them.

Washington Merry-Go-Round—

Wickersham vs. Morris in Oklahoma

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON—Sometimes it takes a long time, but eventually the American voting public gets wise. The democratic system always percolates.

In the last few weeks it looks as if the voters of Oklahoma had got wise to their real-estate congressman, Rep. Victor Wickersham, Democrat, of Mangum, Okla. Next week they may percolate him out of a job.

Three weeks ago a margin of voters figured their boy in Congress needed more time to tend to his many real-estate ventures and that Judge Toby Morris, an ex-congressman with a fine record in Washington, would have more time to handle their problems in Washington. The margin was close, but Toby came out on top. Next week they face a run-off.

It's a run-off in which the fast-selling real-estate congressman is staging a desperate campaign. With ample money to spend and a well-greased organization, he is pulling every political trick out of the bag, especially the usual last-minute "pro-Communist" smears against Judge Morris.

He's accusing Judge Morris of voting against the Nixon-Mundt bill aimed at outlawing the Communist party, which did not pass Congress, though Morris did vote for the Smith Act, which was just as tough on the Communists and which did pass Congress.

He's taken full-page ads all over the district, making it appear that the American Legion and the VFW are against Judge Morris, though Legion service officer Joe Zippin denies this to be the case.

He's used his congressional frank to a fare-thee-well. He offered Sheriff Everett Hale of Comanche County $2,500 to handle his campaign, which the sheriff declined. And he called a meeting of contractors in the Skirvin-Tower Hotel in Oklahoma City to raise more money in a desperate effort to keep his place in the sun in Washington.

Despite all this, he's been so far on the losing side.

In contrast, Judge Morris had exactly $6 left when the polls opened in the first primary. A little money has trickled in since, but apparently he hasn't needed too much. He's had one mighty good substitute—the fact that Lincoln was right when he said: "You can't fool all of the people all of the time."

Real Estate Booms

Victor made a pretense of going out of the real-estate business. He said he turned over his office in the nation's capital to his brother-in-law, Paul E. Butterfield, who was later convicted of not returning purchasers' deposits.

With the lapse of time, however, Victor has cast all pretense to the winds. He has been in the real-estate business up to his ears, and made no bones about it. Probably he has bought and sold more land than any other congressman in all American history. This is not because few congressmen have ever been in the real-estate business, but because Victor has gone in for really extensive operations.

One deal involved a half-million-dollar land purchase 20 miles outside of Washington in southern Maryland where the Air Force planned a signal installation.

Another was the purchase of 376 acres near the Potomac in western Maryland, which, it just happened, was coveted by the Geological Survey. This deal netted Victor a profit of around $185,000.

Another deal was on the other side of the Potomac in Virginia, not far from where the Central Intelligence Agency plans a huge new layout. Land values in that area have been shooting up like crazy.

Victor has also purchased other parcels of land around the nation's capital—200 acres here and 100 acres there. As a result of dispersion to get away from the danger of atomic bombing, government offices are moving to the suburbs, and with them the congressman from Oklahoma has made a killing.

In addition to his Washington land deals, Victor owns two small holdings near the Air Force Academy in Colorado Springs, plus 882.5 acres near the Everglades National Park in Florida.

Not bad for a barefoot boy from Oklahoma who advertises himself in his congressional biography as "reared on cotton, wheat, and dairy farm near Mangum, Okla." That is why Oklahoma voters were especially galled at Victor's claim that he could not live on a congressman's salary.

Can't Clip TV Program

Dorothy Kilgallen, the columnist and television star, recently had something pleasant to say about newspapers as reading matter.

"You can read on a train crossing the desert or on a plane at 17,000 feet above the Atlantic—not static, no fading, no blips," says Miss Kilgallen. "You can read in a bathtub or while hanging onto a pole in a crowded bus. You can read as much or as little as you want, as fast or as slowly as you want."

"And if you read something you like, you can tear it out and save it to read again some day. I enjoy radio and television, and I am gainfully employed by both, but I must admit they have their drawbacks. Did you ever try to clip a television program and paste it in your scrapbook?"

Here's why the newspaper holds its dominant place in the homes and hearts of Americans. And here is why—to touch on the world of commerce from which all of us draw our livings—the newspaper remains an unsurpassed means of advertising goods and services.

Stresses Forest Protection--

Conservation Building Gets 'New Look' for State Fair

The state fairground location of the Missouri Conservation Commission has been receiving some considerable redecorating and repair in the past few weeks. This work is being done in preparation for the State Fair to be held soon.

There are three fellows doing the work at the commission's building. They are Tom Brown, who has been there for three years during the summer, Tom Stapleton, and Bob Wisch, all of Jefferson City. They live, eat and sleep in the building which fair-goers enjoy exhibits and displays of the conservation system for the state.

The commission is stressing forestry and protection in its displays this year, going along with the slogan "Keep Missouri Green, Prevent Woods Fires." In the past year this slogan has been "Prevent Forest Fires." It has been changed and is now "Prevent Woods Fires."

Part of the forestry exhibit in the building is new this year, showing various products made from the forest, such as chairs, benches, curios, and other articles.

There will be a new exhibit on protection entitled "Law Violators." This will be handled by the conservation agents, known to many of us as the game wardens. They prefer to be called the conservation agents.

In the animal pens there will be beaver, a buck deer, two fox, a red fox and a gray fox, a raccoon, a skunk and opossum. There will also be the wild fowl such as ducks and geese. Fish will remain in the glass aquaria in the center of the building as they always have been.

In the line of fish, one old fish, "Old Bill," a 30-pound catfish which has returned to the fair for 14 years, will return again this year to be in the large circular pool near the entrance to the conservation building.

Conservation field service will be held in the bait-casting pool behind the conservation building with and about this tongue-twisting name and what it means.

In order to explain it at all understandably I shall have to say a few words first about the white cells of the human blood since agranulocytosis is a disorder in which these are not enough cells to fight off infection.

All of us have white cells (leucocytes) in the blood. These cells exert an important function, particularly in fighting germs which enter the body.

There are several kinds of white cells and their numbers can be counted.

The kind of cells can be studied by smearing a small amount of blood on a glass slide, staining it and looking at the smear under a microscope.

Normally, there are about 7,500 white cells in a cubic millimeter of blood. Also in health there is a fairly constant relation between the different kinds of cells.

In the presence of many infections the number of white cells

Jack Frost and John Hickey, conservation agents, being in charge of the event. This will be on the last Saturday of the fair.

Also featured will be Smokey, the bear, and Woody and the Ozark Smoke-Eaters. Smokey will be in the building cautioning people on woods fires. Woody and the Ozark Smoke-Eaters will sing for the enjoyment of persons in the building.

Work done on the conservation site by Brown, Wisch and Stapleton has consisted of the planting of seven beautiful flower beds around the location. They set out new cedar trees in the background of the place and have planted grass and kept it watered and trimmed.

Much painting and cleaning has been done inside the building and around the animal pens on the outside.

The Conservation Commission asks that citizens of the state "Keep Missouri Green, Prevent Woods Fires."

Dr. Jordan Says—

Agranulocytosis a Disease Which Affects White Cells

By EDWIN P. JORDAN, M.D.

"A doctor has diagnosed my mother's illness as agranulocytosis," a correspondent writes. This naturally led the inquirer to ask about this tongue-twisting name and what it means.

is usually increased and counting them is often, therefore, an aid in diagnosis. They increase in number in appendicitis, for example. This increase is called leucocytosis.

But sometimes the number of white cells is decreased below normal and this is called agranulocytopenia. It can be serious and infections can arise merely because there are not enough cells to fight off infection.

Many cases of agranulocytopenia have resulted from drugs or medicines. This is a puzzling thing because it is only the occasional person who gets such a reaction. It seems to be a sort of individual poisoning. Recovery about this takes place.

Agranulocytosis is a specific disease. Although characterized by lessening in the number of leucocytes, it is also accompanied by ulcerations in the mucous membranes and elsewhere.

The person who gets it is quite ill, usually has high fever, headache, and severe sore throat. It is exceedingly serious and active treatment at once with all measures available is indicated. Its cause is, unfortunately, not known.

At least she felt better. Her knees stopped shaking and she put the key in the car, turned it and started off. She did all right, too, except once when she couldn't remember whether to put the car in reverse or stop entirely. "Which should I do?" she asked.

"I'm not supposed to answer the questions," he told her. "You are."

She answered incorrectly, but everything else was good and she passed without any difficulty.

When that was done, the woman

Troubles

At one or two, it's bumps and knocks. The tumbling over of his blocks; It's broken toys at three or four.

Or fingers caught in a slamming door;

At five or six it's wanderlust.

A time in life hard to adjust,

Trying to be big, smart and strong.

When babyhood still tags along;

From six to twelve all sorts of things

From twelve to say about fifteen

Are years that seem just in between,

"Too young" they're always being told;

For other things they are too old.

From sixteen up to twenty-one

Perhaps they have the greatest fun

Except for love affairs, I guess.

That keeps young lives in quite a mess,

Nothing with it can quite compare

The joy of loving that they share,

And nothing can be quite as bleak

As falling out—perhaps not speak.

At twenty-one they just must wed,

If not—they might as well be dead;

The years go on and troubles come

A little more it seems to some,

But everybody has their share

Of heartaches, illness and of care,

As we grow older often we

A youngster's trouble cannot see;

We think that everything is fine

At three, at six, at eight or nine,

At twelve and on into the teens,

They just don't know what trouble means.

I think a backward glance is smart,

When something weighs upon the heart;

What it might be will matter not —

At any age it hurts a lot,

I think my troubles and my tears

Were just as bad in growing years

And if I had them to go through

I think they'd hurt as much now, too.

Ten Million Join Home Remodeling Trend in America

Remodeling Ideas Can Be Planned In Simple Stages; This Permits Easy 'Pay-As-You-Go' Approach

One of the reasons for the trend to "do-it-yourself" is the personal satisfaction that comes from the accomplishment of a job done by one's own effort and skills.

Last year more than 10 million home-owners themselves, made some improvements and alterations to their homes. More than another million made structural changes and additions to existing houses by use of their own skills plus the help of professionals.

Four Chief Factors Bring Home Fix-Up

Marching forward, stride for stride, with the booming demand for new home construction, is the burgeoning activity in the improvement and modernization of existing homes.

Four factors, in the main, appear to be responsible for this surging interest in home improvement: (1) Greater emphasis on the home as the focal point of the family's activities, (2) growing realization of the fact that almost any home improvement adds more to the re-sale value of the home than the improvement costs, (3) home owner's ability and willingness to do much of the work himself, as reflected in the accelerating "do it yourself" movement and (4) the easier financing arrangements that can be made today for home improvement projects.

Basically, the householder, embarking upon a program of modernization or improvement, is motivated by the desire to step up the livability of his home, to make it a more pleasant, comfortable and convenient place for family life, in all its manifold phases.

A primary project may well be the better utilization of space within the home. An attic or basement, now virtually idle may be finished off into a recreation room, study, home workshop, hobby room or extra bedroom. A breezeway may be enclosed to serve the same purpose. Houses built a generation ago almost invariably have front or side porches which can very easily be enclosed to make a room.

On the score of convenience, the conversion of the old-fashioned kitchen to its streamlined modern counterpart generally rates a high place on the agenda, especially if Mrs. Home-Owner has anything to say about it (which she generally does!).

Better organization of working space, strategically placed cabinets and working surfaces, modern work-saving appliances, a gay decorative scheme all can work wonders in easing the tasks and lifting the morale of the average housewife.

The bathroom, often woefully outdated in older houses, may well be due for a "face lifting." This can be as far-reaching a project as a complete installation of new fixtures or as simple as re-flooring or redecorating job, which oftentimes the home-owner can do, himself.

Perhaps the house, especially if erected more than a decade ago, has outgrown in its electrical wiring. The addition in recent years of many appliances may indicate the need for new outlets or perhaps a completely new system of greater wattage. In either case, an electrical contractor should be contacted (these are no jobs for the "do-it-yourselfer").

In the realm of greater comfort in the home are such improvements as insulation (which can soon pay for itself in fuel savings), air-conditioning, repairs in present heating system or installation of a new one.

Handy with tools (as so many are house, such projects as re-painting, re-roofing, new siding can give a home a "lift" that will greatly enhance its owner's "pride of possession" as well as the resale value of the dwelling.

New or additional landscaping can add much to the over-all attractiveness of home and grounds.

When the man of the house is handy with tools (as so many are in this "do-it-yourself" age) he can greatly reduce the cost of his program of home improvement by doing much of the work himself.

It is well, though, for him to have a sound sense of his own limitations and not attempt projects that had better be left to the professional. Included in the latter category are electrical wiring, plumbing and heating installations and repairs, and such hazardous operations as roof and chimney work.

The average homeowner will find the most practical solution to his improvement and repair problems in a sensible division of responsibilities between himself and the professional. He will do that part of each project which is within the scope of his abilities and experience and call upon the skilled artisan, where necessary, "to finish the job."

Thus the homeowner can save important money and at the same time be assured of a professional standard of excellence in whatever is undertaken.

Painting of Masonry Has Many Worthwhile Advantages

To paint—or not to paint—masonry? It's often a question. Painting masonry has many advantages. It is, for example, an excellent idea to protect such materials as brick, stone, stucco, concrete, hollow tile, cement or cinder blocks against the penetration of moisture. While moisture does not destroy masonry, masonry that is damp can cause costly damage to adjacent materials in a structure.

A moisture-repellent coating may, of course, be a transparent ing a remodeling job of this kind. If you have been in your family home for many years, perhaps you own it free and clear and care to arrange for a small first mortgage to cover such a plan.

If you are considering buying an older house, you can include the remodeling cost in the total price for mortgage purposes under FHA regulations.

The water-thinned variety may one that does not alter the color of the masonry it protects. Or, it may be a colorful one that improves the appearance of a discolored masonry surface and makes it easier to keep clean.

Still another advantage is provided by light-hued coating materials that reflect more light onto surrounding areas. This result is especially beneficial in apartment courts and areaways where natural darkness is intensified by dark-colored masonry. In some industrial sections of cities, the light-painted walls of large buildings can actually serve as crime-deterrents. Dark walls provide protective coloration for skulking, shadowy figures. Light walls do not!

There are several types of coating materials now available that are suitable for masonry. Basically, they may be classed as either water-thinned or solvent-thinned paints.

The water-thinned variety may

Wallpaper Use Is Increasing In Popularity

This year promises to set a new record in the installation of residential air conditioning.

Two factors, working together, have set the stage for this sharp up-turn in activity. Housewives shopping in air conditioned stores and bread-winners working in air conditioned offices have begun to feel more keenly the discomfort of their own homes. Manufacturers have followed through with an all-out effort to develop practical, low-cost air conditioning systems for the home.

Just a few years ago, residential air conditioning installations were nothing more than cut-down versions of commercial units. Today, however, units have been developed specifically for the home, conforming better to the limited space available, suited more to home needs and, what is most important, easier on the home pocketbook both in first cost and in operating cost.

To meet the greatest possible range of individual taste, the new papers present designs to suit both traditional and contemporary backgrounds; a full scope of new colors from palest pastels to the strong, clear, vibrant hues; and, for good measure, top-notch techniques not only in design but in the function and application of the product.

Trends in color are definitely in the direction of the clean, light colors and tones, the blues and turquoise, the pinks and reds, and the clearest greens.

be used over masonry surfaces that are not entirely dry and that may contain active alkali. One such paint has a cement base. It comes as a dry powder and is mixed with water. Also suitable are the latex paints that have been intensely studied by both the manufacturers and users.

Year Brings Boom in Air Conditioning

If an air conditioning system is out of the question, the home owner still has many ways to beat the heat to some extent.

One of the most effective ways is to insulate and ventilate the attic. Large louvers in the gable ends and a good blanket of insulation over the ceiling will prevent heat accumulation in the attic and transmission of any heat to the living quarters.

Attic fans to get rid of heat accumulation also are effective. They may be used to blow heated air out of the attic by pulling in outside air in a louver at one end and expelling the attic air through a louver in the other end.

Insects Problem Greater

They Seem to Run Race With Busiest Home Owners; Do $4 Billion Harm

By DAVID G. BARRETHUR AP Real Estate Editor

Insects seem to be running a race with the busiest home builders and the neatest homemakers. They would like to eat us out of house and home. An entomologist, Dr. Harlan R. Shuyler of Kansas City, told us the other day that insects are now causing home damage estimated at four billion dollars a year.

Aside from termites and other bugs that attack the structure of a house, the ordinary flying or crawling whatnot that we all battle at this season, is really eating green stuff right out of our walls.

So if you find a new bug in your home, don't be ashamed of your housekeeping—it happens to everybody—but get a good insecticide and go into action. The bug may be a punkie, a mud dauber, a no-sec-un, a fish moth, a bristletail or a boxelder bug.

It's impossible to know all bugs by their family names. There are some 686,000 species, according to the scientists. Man never has eliminated one species. The experts say that one pair of ordinary houseflies, if given perfect conditions, could blanket the earth three feet deep in a few months.

The bug problem has been intensified recently by the widespread building of new homes in outlying areas—on land that had been wild and wooded until the bulldozers came along. Excavation disturbs insect nests and land clearance destroys their food sources. In the three months or so while a house is under construction, workmen eat lunches and the partly framed house stands open over night. So the bugs move in before the happy homeowner.

Even when people move 45 minutes from Broadway or Main Street, they often are surprised to find roaches there ahead of them.

"Roaches not only come in on groceries," says Dr. Shuyler, "but they have been known to arrive on lumber. They are the most common household pest, carriers of disease, contaminants of food and destroyers of books, paper, and soiled or starched clothing."

The doctor seems to know the private lives of all the bugs. He heads the Home Insect Control Bureau, a non-profit, public service organization, dedicated to stirring up action against bugs.

We told him we had carpenter ants in our house, having found some sawdust on the basement floor.

"Don't worry too much. Your house won't fall down," he said. "Carpenter ants don't really eat wood. They just chisel out enough to build their nest. But you have to get rid of them."

We were planning to put some carbon tetrachloride in a garden spray and get up into wall spaces that way.

"It would work," he said, "but the fumes might do you more harm than the ants are doing to your house. Dieldrin would be better. This compound is many times more powerful than DDT, harmless to humans, yet it leaves a residue like DDT which is fatal to insects crawling across it."

Moths lead all other insects in dollar volume of damage each year, according to Dr. Shuyler. He takes a dim view of moth balls and moth flakes, primarily because people do not use enough of them and do not store their clothing in air-tight containers. A half-dozen moth balls scattered here and there are useless, he says. It takes a couple of pounds to be effective in about eight cubic feet of sealed space.

Cedar closets have some repellent value while they are new and aromatic, he says, but they are rarely constructed tight enough to seal all tracks. His prescription for moths is:

"Follow closely the instructions on the label of the insecticide you use. The manufacturer did not put those directions there just to decorate the container."

Valuable Attic Space Is Easily Convertible

AFTER

If you are using the attic area in your home for storing hand-me-downs, discarded clothing and can't-be-parted-with items, then there may be at least 3,000 cubic feet or more, going to waste in your own home.

This space can be converted to a bedroom, den, workshop or perhaps an income-adding apartment.

The biggest job in attic remodeling is to complete the sheathing of walls and ceilings. New wallboards of wood fibers, or other composition materials give an inexpensive solution to this problem.

There are panels, planks and large-sized boards available in these wallboards to make the job handsome and professional-looking.

The advantages to these modern wallboard installations is that they can be nailed or stapled to the exposed studs and ceiling beams, or they may be cemented in place over existing cracked, chipped or broken plaster walls. Some of the newest wallboards need no paint-

Lace a Fence With Plastic Rope for Unusual Effects

By VIVIAN BROWN AP Newsfeatures Writer

Any old backyard is likely to spot a swimming pool these days. But sometimes in the anxiety of making the purchase, parents are likely to forget that safety factors are involved. Junior and all the other little neighborhood children are in danger, as long as the pool is not fenced in. Some communities forbid swimming pools that are not properly enclosed.

If you haven't a fence around your pool you may build one as a leisure time project. Even some of the smaller pools for tots may be dangerous if left around where Sis may fall in when no one is looking.

An attractive fence may be made in a woven geometric design with new jewel-toned plastic clothesline. It permits undiminished passage of light and air and a minimum of view obstruction.

A sectional panel frame of redwood or other suitable wood is erected and then the nylon cord is laced through screw eyes set at intervals in the frame and section dividers. This same principle may be followed in the construction of a pergola, trellis or to relieve the severe look of a carport.

Work out a pattern in a diamond, scription for moths is:

"Have clothing dry cleaned and moth-free before storing for the season. Then store it completely sealed from the air."

But Dr. Shuyler's most important rule in the battle against all bugs is:

"Follow closely the instructions on the label of the insecticide you use. The manufacturer did not put those directions there just to decorate the container."

Modern Asphalt Shingles Are Both Tough, Colorful

Remodeling should begin with the roof.

It's the most looked-at area of the house. It's also the part that gets the most abuse and hence must be the toughest. In winter, it faces the abuse of grating ice and snow. In summer, it's cooked by the sun. Still it's expected to be handsome. The roof can do it, too. Modern asphalt shingles are well suited to the contradictory demands of toughness and beauty.

They come in a wide variety of colors and shades. This offers new decorative schemes for the whole house which were impossible in pre-World War II years, when most of the existing roofs were put on. At that time only a relatively few colors were generally available.

The new pastel shades are particularly well adapted to the popular ranch-style houses. Because of special application methods they can be applied on roofs with slopes down to two inches per foot.

In addition to choice of color, the home-owner can pick from a variety of shingle shapes, each of which can present different designs on the roof. Among the more common shingle shapes are the three-tab square-butt strip shingle, the two- or three-tab hexagonal shingle, giant individual shingle and the lock-down shingle.

There also is a choice of roofing weight. Shingles weigh between 135 and 350 pounds per square (covering 100 square feet). The heavier the shingle, the longer-lasting it is.

If the roof has been well taken care of in the past, new asphalt shingles probably can be laid right over the old. This saves money since no labor is used in ripping off old shingles. In addition, the old roofing gives the house protection while reroofing is going on.

To a large extent, the roof is no better than the man who puts it on. It's best to deal with local contractors who have a good reputation in the community.

Sedalia Bee Jays Will Meet Mexico In 2 Tilts Today

The Sedalia Bee Jays will meet the Mexico Ramblers in a double header at the Liberty Park baseball diamond this evening. The Bee Jays will have their opportunity to advance to the top spot in the Central Missouri League with a pair of victories.

The visitors invade the Sedalia territory with a last half season record of 6-0 while the Bee Jays have a standing of five wins and one loss.

The first game is scheduled to get underway at 5:30 p.m. in a twilight affair to be followed immediately by the second tilt under the lights.

Manager Russell Gilmore has not fully decided upon his starting pitcher for the first game but it will be either Elroy Burton or Clyde Kubli.

Mexico will use the McNamara

Brothers, both left-handers on the mound.

Earlier this season the Bee Jays fell victims of the Ramblers in a doubleheader played at Mexico. The Sedalians bowed 3-2 and 2-1.

Who is building Missouri's new roads?

These direct taxes you pay on gasoline
total 6 cents a gallon*

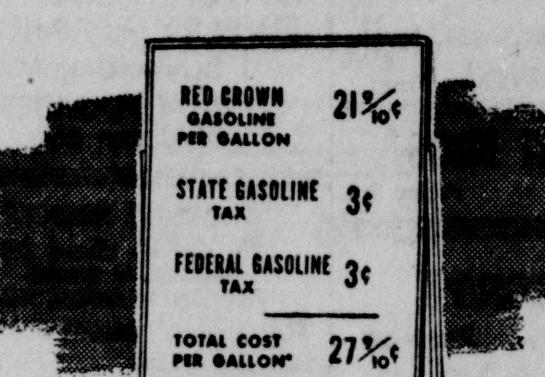

Remember, every time you pay the gasoline tax most of your money is buying better, safer roads in Missouri. And the next time you fill up at your Standard Dealer's you're getting one of the best bargains of any commodity you buy today—the highest quality, most powerful RED CROWN Gasoline we've ever made for only 21 9/10 cents per gallon, excluding taxes.

Getting your money's worth? We think so. Look at this way. A gallon of STANDARD RED CROWN Gasoline in mid-Missouri areas, for example, typically costs you 21 9/10 cents—excluding direct taxes, of course. For that, we find oil, transport it hundreds of miles, refine it to the finest quality gasolines you can buy for your car, and deliver it to your independent Standard Dealer. And your dealer's mark-up, which must cover his costs and what he earns for serving you, is included in the same 21 9/10 cents. Pretty reasonable, isn't it?

Then add your 3-cent state gasoline tax. Your state uses this tax, all of it, for maintaining and building better, safer highways.

Uncle Sam adds 3 cents more. That's the current federal tax on gasoline in all states. Under the new Federal Highway Bill, the federal government will be spending all this money on highways, too.

*This figure does not include the Municipal Gasoline tax imposed in certain communities.

Mrs. Douglas Crank Writes News While Keeping House

The drive to Sweet Springs is bit of time and work from Mrs. Crank, but she still finds time to write for the newspaper and to work part time at the shoe factory.

Mrs. Crank was born Minnie Griffitt in Marshall, but moved with her family to the Sweet Springs area when she was one-year-old. Her mother is dead but her father still lives in the Sweet Springs community. She has six sisters and six brothers, one sister living in Sedalia. The others also live in the midwest. After attending a number of rural schools, Mrs. Crank attended the Sweet Springs High School before marrying Douglas Crank nine years ago.

The family belongs to the Christian Church in Sweet Springs. Her husband is president of the American Legion post there and she was the vice-president of the Auxiliary this past year.

Since she is busy with her boys, her job, homemaking and writing, Mrs. Crank finds it hard to participate in many organizational activities, although she is interested in church work.

However, she does find time to follow the stock car racing at the Sweet Springs track and is an avid fan. Her husband drove for a number of years on the stock car

This year she and her husband have planted a large garden behind the house and even have an acre of popcorn. One of the little boys asked what would happen to the popcorn if it got too hot, but it looks like he won't have to worry.

Mrs. Crank began writing for The Democrat-Capital a year ago after a former correspondent talked to her about it. She finds telephoning is the fastest and best way for her to obtain information and material.

Warns Motorists With Sign of Radar Ahead

PASADENA, Calif. (AP)—He wanted to warn his fellow motorists, but John Tracey Stout ran afoul of the police with his sign, "Radar Trap Ahead," which he parked a short distance from Pasadena's new radar speed detection unit.

Officers took a dim view of the sign and confiscated it, but said that Stout will not be prosecuted. "We object to the use of the word 'trap,'" said Chief Clarence Morris. "However, 100 of those signs around the city might help us slow up the traffic."

Teen-agers Are Volunteer Fire Crew in Small Town

By WILLIAM COBBLEDICK
NEA Staff Correspondent

THE CHIEF: Martin Crislip, 19, is the youngest chief on record in the country. That's normal in Spencer, where anybody out of high school is too old.

In the early morning blaze that caused Cottle to back to safety, a half-block section in the heart of town was destroyed, with losses reaching $300,000. But people in Spencer feel it would have been much worse, if the soda pop-drinking firemen hadn't rallied quickly.

They handled it under the direction of a 19-year-old high school senior, Martin Crislip, a stocky, muscular youth who is Spencer's fire chief. The town has not had an adult fire chief since Crislip's uncle had the job two decades back.

In this era of rock-n-roll and delinquency, Crislip and his boys are a curious item. For one thing, he says, "a kid has to be serious. If he won't work, out he goes. Most of our boys now are tough firemen. I'll put 18 of them against any fire in the country."

There are 30 teen-agers in the Spencer unit and "except for the flights of fancy and occasional screwball antics, dead seriousness prevails. Fire drills and actual jobs are handled with business-like snap. Crislip's orders are followed quickly.

High school students of freshman age and older are eligible for membership, but they must pass a rigid screening test climaxing by a vote of the volunteers. Officers-chief, assistant, captain and two lieutenants—are elected. The chief serves until high school graduation.

The present department was set up when World War II siphoned off the old department. Tired businessmen, reluctant to answer middle-of-the-night calls, proved a flop. The schoolboys were brought in—and chances are the situation never will change. Except for a few minor cuts and burns, none of the Spencer volunteers have

Syracuse Farm Changes Hands

Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Anthony bought a 93 acre farm from Mr. and Mrs. W. N. Ellis. Anthony and his sons, James and Bill, are farming the land this year. The farm joins the Anthony farm on the south with a frame house, barn and other buildings in the northwest part of town.

The Ellises moved to Bunceton where Mrs. Ellis has been teaching for several years in the high school.

pumper and the department developed rapidly.

Since then, the village has sent a delegation of its teen-age firefighters to West Virginia University for a week's tedious study. The payoff is "fire savvy." Call it professional proficiency, or whatever—the boys have it.

The fire siren screaming from atop the town's tallest building is a signal for boys to become men, temporarily. School work is left behind in the dash to the fire station. "The siren sounds two one-minute blasts," Mayor Howard Bartlett says. "Generally, the kids have at least one engine rolling before the second blast has trailed off."

Spencer accepts its baby-faced fire fighters with an outward human attitude.

But Walter Staats, owner of a drugstore lost in the big blaze, shows what is underneath. "I cried," he admits, "watching those little monkeys scampering around, over ladders and roofs, trying to save my store."

GRADUATES—Miss Grace Moore, 21st and Wagner, left, and Miss Connie Pike, 2504 South Woodland Drive, right, are the first two graduates of the newly-established Myrtle's Beauty College, 115 South Osage, which has 14 students enrolled. The new class room contains 24 chairs and 14 dressers.

The school also has a movie camera and a recording machine for instructional purposes. There is no age limit and a placement service is operated. The three instructors are Loretta Carroll, Celia Adams and Myrtle Fontaine. The first graduation ceremony was held July 9, and the two graduates received diplomas.

Jaegers said the 1955 attendance total was 2,157,377. With the heaviest attendance months at state parks, July, August and September, still to come, Jaegers expected the 1956 attendance to hit a peak of 2,500,000.

Live Programs Give Viewers Hazards Now

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK — Every engineering device conceivable by man is ever on hand to prevent mechanical failure in a live television program. But no one can invent anything to prevent occasional sudden human failure.

Any live television program can be as risky as a tightrope walk across Niagara. To actors like Ralph Bunker a live dramatic program is a routine, casual feat. It doesn't seem possible to them that the rope could break. Yet other professionals consider the rope too frail ever to attempt a role in live TV. The tension is too great, they say.

Bunker, a relaxed and pleasant veteran of more than 30 years in the theater, movies and television, had a character role last Monday evening in the Robert Montgomery Show. In "Day of Grace," a fantasy directed by Ira Cinker, he played Mr. Angell, editor of a religious publishing house.

"Mr. Angell was more or less Edwardian," says Bunker, "but he wanted to be hep. He was very gentle, very sensitive. I liked the role immensely and I felt Ira Cinker's direction was really great."

Cinker, in turn, thought Bunker was doing a great job in rehearsals. So did other leading members of the cast—John Gibson, Jan Miner, Mary K. Wells, Charles Drake.

On Monday the technical rehearsal of "Day of Grace" went off flawlessly. The cast took a short break. During the break Bunker ate a tuna salad sandwich and drank a cup of black coffee. The cast returned and went through dress rehearsal with every line, every bit of stage business perfect.

When the program went on "I began to feel dizzy," said Bunker. "I had no nausea, but everything around me seemed to be growing darker and darker. I scarcely knew where I was. I couldn't remember a line. I didn't even know my own name."

"My scene was with Gibson, a wonderful actor with a great future. I didn't know what I was saying, but I remember seeing the stage manager mouthing lines to me—but I couldn't understand what he was saying. I knew John was covering for me, doing everything he could for me, and then I was off. In my second scene near the end of the play it was the same way."

Afterwards he was rushed to a doctor. Ptomaine caused by that tuna salad sandwich, said the doctor, and went to work with a stomach pump. Such a blackout is commonplace with ptomaine, the doctor said, and told Bunker not to worry about it.

It would be tragic indeed if the career of Ralph Bunker, who has appeared in a score of Broadway shows, should be in any way damaged by a tuna sandwich. It's one of the hazards of live TV.

Helen Hayes' Son Gets Jump Into Films

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD — Still another offspring of a famous star has made the leap into the big time. This time it's James MacArthur, adopted son of Helen Hayes.

Jim, 17 years old and soon to enter Harvard, joins many others in the second (or more) generation performers club. Among them: Tony Perkins (son of Osgood), Pat Wayne (John's sprout), John Barrymore Jr., Elizabeth Montgomery (daughter of Robert), Robert Dix (Richard's son), etc.

Young Jim has rugged good looks, a curly crew cut, a nose that may have seen some battering on the football field and a medium but solid build. Unlike some performers his age, he's a good talker. But that's only natural. His father was the brilliant Charles MacArthur.

Jim's first real role has proven a big step toward prominence as an actor. Previously he had done only a few small parts in summer stock. His only appearance with his mother was on a radio show several years ago.

"Then I got acquainted with Hern Manulis, who was producing a Producer's Showcase show my mother was on," Jim recalled. "He was doing a drama called 'Strike a Blow' on TV and asked me to read for it. I didn't get the part."

"Later he went to Hollywood and asked me if I'd like to try out for the part again. It was a free trip to California, so I decided why not?"

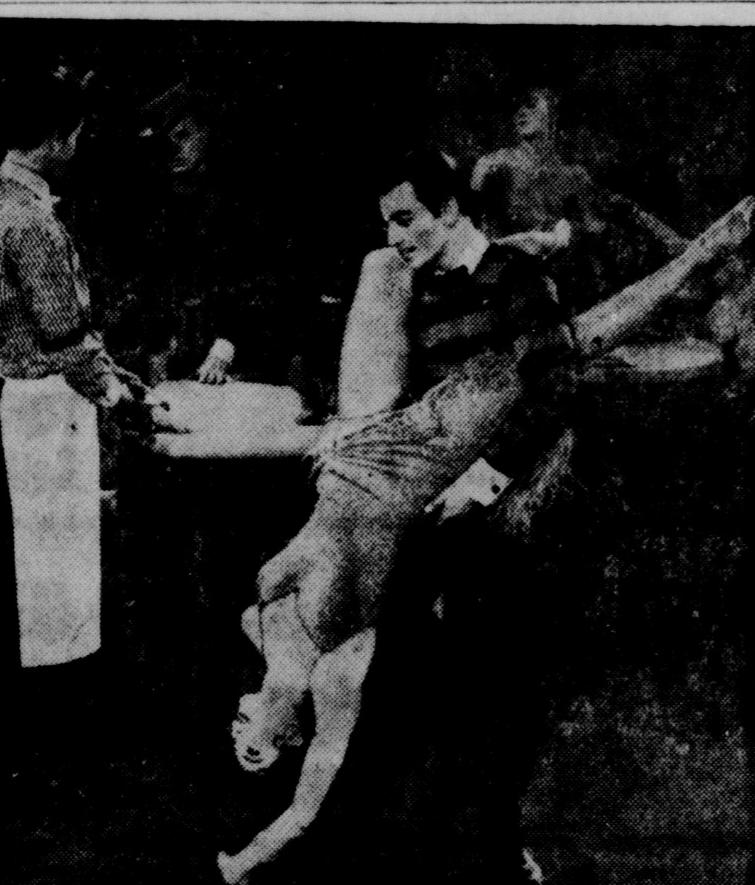

He won the role that time. He made a big enough impression so that he was signed to repeat the role in the film version for RKO. It's now called "The Young Stranger," and he costars with Kim Hunter and James Daley.

But this doesn't mean that his film career will now blossom.

"I'm going to college first," said Jim, who will enroll as a freshman at Harvard in September. "I'll finish school before I decide about an acting career. I'd have to finish or my mother would blow a fuse."

Skin-Diver Action and Aqua-Lung Thrills are furnished by Jane Russell and Richard Egan in "Underwater," an adventure drama, filmed in beautiful Technicolor which starts Tuesday for three days at the 50 Drive-In Theatre. Gilbert Roland and Lori Nelson co-star in the production.

Cyd Charisse and top Broadway dancer John Brascia in the show-stopping "Frankie and Johnny" number of M-G-M's multi-star CinemaScope musical, "Meet Me in Las Vegas." Dan Dailey and Miss Charisse head the big cast of the song-and-dance filled production laid against America's most fabulous resort, with Jerry Colonna, Paul Henreid, Lena Horne, Frankie Laine and the Japanese singing discovery, Mitsuko Sawamura, appearing as guest stars. Opens today at the Uptown Theatre.

Martha Raye Says No More Romances

By BOB THOMAS

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (P) — "Romance? No, sir, not me. Not for a long, long time."

This was Martha Raye speaking over the rock 'n' roll din in the lounge of the Hotel Sahara. In a rare moment of relaxation between her own shows in the Congo Room, she talked about her personal life and career.

What about reports she was kindling a new romance, this time with a dealer at the Sahara?

"Oh, no!" she said, shaking her head emphatically. "No more men for Martha. From now on, it's only one I'm going to worry about is Uncle Sam."

It was an understandable reaction after five husbands, but I hazarded that she had said the same before.

"Yep, I have," she nodded. "But now I'm older and wiser."

Martha was leaving shortly to wed no. 5, Ed Begley, in Florida. She explained that she was a Florida resident, though she was a little hazy about the divorce laws. Anyway, she claimed she would shun marriage in the future and devote herself to her career.

The future of her career at least is more predictable. She is signed to a dreamy 15-year pact with NBC.

"It's really a great thing for me," she enthused. "You know, it's seldom in this business that you can look forward to any de-

Dog Follows Mail Carrier Around Route

"A dog is man's best friend." And many times the mail carrier's worst enemy, but this is not the case in the man and dog friendship between city carrier John Swisher of the Sedalia post office and Skippy.

For several years, in the best tradition of the Postal Department, rain, snow or shine, Skippy has met letter carrier Swisher at a point on his route and serves as a friendly escort all the way back to the employees' entrance of the post office where man and dog perform the daily courtesies of bidding each other a fond goodbye.

When Swisher commands Skippy to "Go on home, now" Skippy tucks his tail and heads for home. Skippy may have another master somewhere, but for a few hours each day he's content to accept Swisher's voice as that of master.

You might say that Swisher is one of those rare people who just has a way with dogs, but he is not unique as letter carriers go, for he has been dog-bitten too. It's a good bet though, any canine enemy of Swisher's is an enemy of Skippy and that Swisher's not going to be dog-bitten when Skippy's making the route with him.

Postal Rate Raise Not Expected to Pass Senate This Session

WASHINGTON (Special) — Sen. Stuart Symington says it's doubtful if postal raise bill will get through the senate before adjournment.

The senate post office and civil service committee is not ready to rush through the House bill. House proponents cited an annual post office deficit of $490 million and argued that the increase would cost the average family only $1.50 a month. Opponents maintain publications such as magazines and catalogues do not pay their way and should be assessed.

Major effect of this bill would be to increase the charge for first class mail (letter mail) from 3 cents to 4 and the air mail charge from 6 to 7 cents. The charge for other classes of mail would be raised progressively over a period of time.

Not counting irrigation, use of water on farms is estimated at 3 1/2 billion gallons daily.
